FACT AND COMMENT

The Editor wishes to thank the members who responded to his personal letter asking for articles and notes for "The Murrelet." The response was cordial and gratifying, and the present number is the result. May the future numbers receive the same cordial support as the present.

The following Amendment to the Constitution and By-laws of the Club was presented at the January meeting, and according to the constitution, will be acted upon at the next regular meeting; viz., in February.

Amendment to Article I:- Amending this so that it shall read,-

The name of this organization shall be, The Pacific Northwest Bird and Mammal Society.

The name Club is changed to Society. A large number of the members believe that the name as thus changed would be in better keeping with the character of the organization and the territory covered.

A Correction:- On page 5, Vol. II, No. 2, (May 1921), in notes on occurrence of Cedar Waxwings in Okanagan District, by J. A. Munro, it should read, "is the first winter record of this species for the Okanagan District," and on page 16 in list of birds observed on Feb. 6, - read Short-billed Gull instead of Ring-billed Gull.
